

I don't want to just talk the talk. I want to help WALK THE CATWALK

I hereby proclaim my commitment to help size diversity walk its way into the fashion and entertainment industry by supporting the WALK THE CATWALK campaign. I understand the WALK THE CATWALK philosophy is to inspire society by creating and expanding new role models, media images and attitudes that will represent all.

This commitment offers the opportunity to fashion students/members of fashion schools, designers, magazines/editors, celebrities, media, companies and individuals to create change by executing one or more of the following:

- I/we will discuss in my/our classroom(s) the need for size diversity in fashion including expanding sample sizes and collection size ranges.
- I/we will create one runway outfit for the fall presentation of my/our spring line in a size 12 or higher to be worn by a curvy model.
- I/we will make available a sample size 12 or higher to magazines and the press in order to encourage the use of size diversity in print media editorials and coverage.
- As Editor in Chief, I will feature in my magazine one model size 12 or higher, in a minimum of one outfit, in a fashion editorial in our January 2008 issue.
- I will wear the WALK THE CATWALK button to a public event.
- I will declare my commitment to the press through a press release or such.
- I will link my website to www.walkthecatwalk.com.
- I will ask others to become involved.
- Here is how I choose to WALK THE CATWALK:

- I already WALK THE CATWALK. Here is what I am doing:
